THE proposed duplicating of the White House, if not all that could be desired, will at least give the President a residence separate from his office.

The Democratic party cannot ask to be trasted for what it was or what it is; it can only ask public confidence in what it promises to be. And the record shows that Democratic pledges are a rope of sand.

THE Bourbon politicians in Tennessee are trying to unite the hundred-centson-the-dollar Democrats and the outand-out repudiators on a common platform of hostility to the abolition of slavery and to the overthrow of the Southern confederacy. They will share the fate of the poor fellow who looked out from behind the times and had his head taken off by a passing event.

The Democratic newspapers have finally ascertained that the Republicans carried Oregon. They hung fire on the announcement until very recently. They were "conceding a tie" in the legislature for a week after it was known to have given a majority to the Republicans. The latter hardly dared to claim that body at first, but their majority has advanced from three up to sixteen, with a tied county yet to elect its representa-

Mr. Robeson, of New Jorsey, from the Comm of those two representative bodies, speaks well for the genuineness and thoroughness of the coalition between the Liberal Democrats and Republicans of the Old votes of that State are to decide Dominion. The nomination will be enthusiastically indorsed by the several district coalition conventions, and will be ratified by the people at the polls in internecine war. Now, why cannot the November by a majority of thirty thou-Band.

The Coalition district conventions will settle all questions of rivalry between the several aspirants in each district, and high hopes are entertained that seven, and perhaps eight, of the districts will send anti-Bourbon members. The candidates will be selected by delegates chosen by the great body of the voters upon whom they are to rely for election. and after the conventions shall have spoken all will join heartily in the work at the time of a presidential count? against Bourbon restoration.

The Scholar in Office. Mr. George W. Curtis has lectured on "The Leadership of Educated Men." Mr. Curtis has never yet been able to distinguish education from brains. A strong man is stronger for education; a fool with an education is the most hopeless of fools. By education of course we mean, as Mr. Curtis does, Greek, the higher mathematics, and, in these modern times, perhaps a dash of the natural sciences may not be counted as vulgar by men of Mr. Curtis's ideas. "Educated men" are those who have been admitted to the university and have graduated therefrom. They are told that they constitute what Mr. Curtis recently alluded to on a public occasion as an "order." They are always being urged to hold together as a e'ass and to claim certain privileges not to be accorded to those whom iron fortune excluded from college. They are especially exhorted by certain silly egotists to form themselves into an office-seeking fraternity. They are told that those who are most proficient in the matters taught in schools will make the ablest masters of the ordinary routine work required of a government clerk. They are ever being told that reform consists in putting the common people's boys at manual labor and giving the scholar in politics a place in which to copy manuscript or file papers at from twelve to eighteen hundred a year. Mr. James Russell Lowell's description thirty-odd years ago of the Southern class who thought they were "born to rule" readily adapts itself to the pretensions of our modern would-be privileged order-not of educated men, but of a weak and feeble-minded element among educated men. It was in nearly these words.- We quote from memory :

The mass orter labor and we lay on soffles That's why I'm for spreadin' of Freedom's aree; It puts all the enuninest on us in offis And carries out our Maker's original idee-

President, The great danger lies in the disruption of State governments and the rival claims of contending factions to speak the voice of a State. The question of the legitimacy of State governments is one not provided for in the Constitution in direct terms. The provision that the United States shall

Mr. Aldrich moved to allow the Secretary of the Treasury in his discretion to suspend the Laise of the gold certificates whenever the amount of gold colt and gold buillon in the Treasury available for the renemption of United States notes fails below $100,000,000.

After further remarks the pending motion prevailed as amended, at the instance of Mr. Ingalls, so as to absolutely prohibit the certificates being issued in the contingency named.

Mr. Coke offered and advocated an amendment requiring the silver certificates to be accepted in the settlement of clearing house balances.

Upon the suggestion of Mr. Pugh, the amendment was modified that no national banks shall become a member of any clearing-house in which the silver certificate shall not be receivable in the settlement of clearing-house balances.

Mr. Pugh remarked that this prohibition would operate a one upon the fiscal significances.

The ameniment was agreed to—yeas, 20; nays, 20. The following is the vote:

THE STAR-ROUTE TRIAL.

The Testimony Yesterday-Objections and Arguments by Counsel.

In the star-route trial yesterday John M. Fisk was the first witness examined. He testified that he left Baker City between 6 and 7 in the morn-ing; went to Granite Creek, a distance of fortytwo miles, the first day; then on the next day to Canyon City, a distance of fifty-five miles, and on the following day from Cayoon City to South Fork, a distance of thirty-four or thirty-five miles, Fork, a distance of thirty-four or thirty-five miles, and return to Canyon City. The witness testified to the increase of the route in July, 1872. During the time two trips were run, two drivers and fourteen horses were used from Canyon City to South Fork on a schedule of 120 hours. The mail was carried on a two-horse buckboard. The largest mail he ever took from Baker City was about two hundred pounds and the smallest about thirty. On the return to laker City the mail generally amounted to from ten to twenty pounds. Joseph E. Masterton carried the route between The Dalles and Canyon City, beginning November, 1878. He drove the distance (about distance (about Two MUNDRED MILES) IN THREE DAYS.

After the increase of the route he drove only from The Dalles to Cross Hollow, a distance of finy miles. Judge Wylle asked the purpose of this testimony. Mr. Bliss said they proposed to show that the affidavit as to the number of men and ho see employed on the route was false. Mr. Ingersoll objected to this sort of testimony, and a discussion ensued between him, Mr. Merrick, and Mr. S. S. Heukle. Judge Wylle said the government had undertaken to make out a case of conspiracy against the defendants. After reviowing the nature of a conspiracy, and the requirements of an indletment for a conspiracy, Judge Wylle said the view he took of the subject was that the routes or contracts were not independent factors, but were parts of the capital stock of the conspiracy, and need not be separated in the matter of proof regarding acts on the route tending to show the combination of interests. The witness was then examined and cross-examined as to the stock on the route, and other matters. Mr. Borden, of the topographer's office, identified diagrams showing the Oregon routes. Emil Schulse, of Camp Waison, Oregon, was called, and examined as to the stock on Reute 41,155. He also testified to writing petitions for increase. Other Witnesses were examined on the same matters, and then the court adjourned. TWO HUNDRED MILES) IN THREE DAYS.
